FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

Milan, October 4. Our correspondent at Turin writes us that one Lanzon, of Mondovi in Piedmont, went over into Corsica some years ago, and found means to introduce himself to Paoli, to whom he was made secretary; but imagining his new employment would not produce him any great matters, and perceiving the animosity which prevailed among some of the principal people of the island against Paoli, he endeavoured underhand to ruin him entirely, in hopes to make something by the confusion. Some officers promised to join him and others who were more prudent, hinted to him that they would declare themselves at a proper time. He even found means to engage some of his countrymen to set about raising a body of troops in Piedmont, in order to be sent into Corsica; but while this intrigue was carrying on, the vigilant Paoli discovered the whole plot, and gave orders to arrest Lanzon and his accomplices, but they had the good luck to escape. Paoli upon examining Lanzon's papers discovered the intrigues he had carried on in Piedmont, which he made known to the court of Turin, who caused part of the principal parties concerned to be secured, and would have done the same by another if he had not eluded his pursuers.

Copenhagen, October 10. On the 7th, about 6 o'clock in the morning, his Majesty the King of Denmark, and the two Dowager Queens, accompanied by their Royal Highnesses Prince Frederick, the Princess Sophia Magdalena, consort to the Prince of Sweden, and the Princess Louisa, as also his Serene Highness Prince Charles of Hesse, arrived at Elsingor, escorted by two detachments of carabiniers and dragoons, where they were received in the most splendid manner.

On the 8th, their Majesties and their Highnesses went from their apartments to the custom-house, and from thence to the sea, which was to convey the Princess Sophia to Helsingbourg; the King and the Princes went in carriages, but the Queen and the Princesses in sedan chairs. All the streets from the custom-house to the place where the fleet lay, were covered with scarlet cloth, which was afterwards distributed among the people. The King himself conducted the Princess Sophia into the vessel; after which, their majesties the two Queens, the Princess Louisa, Prince Frederick, and the Prince of Hesse, as likewise all the officers of state, foreign ministers, with the lords and ladies, who were of the retinue, took leave of her royal highness, and the fleet sailed for Elsinbourg, which arrived in about three quarters of an hour after. Their Majesties and highnesses, on their return to the custom-house, followed with their eyes the fleet, which made continual salvos of artillery. The Princess Sophia Magdalena, on her arrival at Helsingbourg, was received by the Prince Royal of Sweden, her consort, and conducted through a street covered with blue cloth, to the apartment destined for her.

Paris, October 12. They write from Rochfort, that they are working with diligence at that port in arming many ships, which the court are about sending to our colonies.

It is offered that a marriage is upon the carpet between her Royal Highness the Archduchess Maria Josepha, who will be 16 years of age next March, and the King of the Two Sicilies, who will be 16 in January.

Leghorn, October 4. Our accounts from the island of Corsica are so contradictory that we know not what to make of them: It is however certain, that the malecontents persist in their resolution of not returning under the dominion of the Genoese; therefore time will shew whether the French, or any other power, will think it worth while to make use of force to oblige them to change their resolution.

LONDON, October 14.

His Majesty has been pleased to allow his royal highness the Duke of Cumberland 9000l. per annum, out of the civil list, to commence from the 10th of this instant October.

On thursday evening the Count de Guerchy, ambassador from the French court, arrived at his house in Soho-Square from Paris; and yesterday waited on his Majesty at St. James's.

It is said that Lord Viscount Weymouth will shortly be appointed Post Master General.

A report prevails (but it is hoped, without foundation) that a certain commoner has formed a project of succeeding to the title of great commoner, by opposing the measures, and lessening the character, of a nobleman who fairly acquired, and long justly enjoyed that title. It is added, that some of the first mentioned gentleman's best friends fear that he will in the end, be the dupe of his own cunning, in endeavouring to found the basis of his wished for popularity by destroying the fame of that man, whose virtues it would be his truest interest to imitate, in order to obtain popular favour.

We hear that the appointment of William-Henry Lyttelton, Esq; ambassador to the court of Lisbon, gives great satisfaction to the gentlemen concerned in the Portugal trade, on account of his well known abilities and spirit; being confident that he will support the interests and dignity of the British nation to the utmost of his power.

Extract of a Letter from Galata, a suburb of Constantinople, dated August 16, 1766.

"We have been a good deal diverted in this part of the world, with the accounts of the progress of Prince Heraclius of Georgia, and of the great advantages he, of late, had obtained over the Ottoman forces. To credit them, we would be induced to believe, that the Turkish power had received a fatal blow, and that the Georgians were on their way to seat themselves in the imperial city of Constantinople. To us, that know the fact, nothing can appear more ridiculous. The real fact is this, Prince Heraclius is chief of one of the tribes in the hilly country of Georgia, which acknowledges the Porte as their sovereign, and to whom they pay a tribute. This tribute was paid in slaves; a certain number of young persons, of both sexes, being annually sent to Constantinople for that purpose. The exactors of this tribute having wantonly abused their power, by demanding the daughter of a man of high distinction in the country, occasioned at first that commotion, which has since made some noise. Prince Heraclius endeavoured to appease the commotion, by offering an annual tribute in money in lieu of the other; but this was refused on the part of the Turk, and a body of troops was dispatched to enforce the payment of the tribute. Prince Heraclius had the gallantry to oppose, and the good fortune to repel them. The natural strength of the country has as yet preserved him from the chastisement he has reason to expect; to prevent which, he is now fortifying and securing himself by raising troops, by alliances with the neighbouring tribes, and by every method in his power."

OCTOBER 23.

It is said the right hon. Lord Adam Gordon, will be appointed governor of Jamaica, in the room of William-Henry Lyttelton, Esq; appointed ambassador to the court of Portugal.

OCTOBER 25.

His Majesty has been pleased to appoint William Woodleye, Esq; to be captain-general and governor in chief of the Leeward Islands, in the room of George Thomas, Esq.

The right hon. Charles Townshend's ministerial character seems to be hourly rising in the estimation of the public; and it is difficult to determine, whether his popularity is most promoted by the material share he had in the late, timely, and generally applauded embargo, or by the singularly polite reception he gives to all who address him (strangers or otherwise) on matters relative to the state.

OCTOBER 28.

Gibraltar, October 21. The Algerine galliot which has been full employ for this week past, in bringing in more of the rioters. The number now in goal is upwards of 60; but those who have fled their country upon this occasion, we are told, exceed 400; many of whom have left wives and large families to be maintained by their parishes. From the late rebellious spirit in the common people a melancholly train of evils is likely to ensue, both to themselves and their country.

A letter from Hamburgh, dated October 21, says, "Last Saturday night between five and six, the Queen of Denmark arrived at Altena; the whole town was illuminated. On Sunday morning her Majesty went to Altena church, and, after dinner, in a grand procession with her whole retinue of Hanoverians, English, and Danes, through most of the principal streets there to let the people have the pleasure of seeing her. Her Majesty seemed very much pleased with the illuminations, particularly one at an English merchant's house, who deals in English porcelain, and had decorated his house in a most elegant manner. A letter from Ipswich, dated October 27, says, "The inhabitants of this town having often murmured at the extraordinary price they have been obliged to pay for butter; on Saturday a mob arose, determined to put a stop to the exorbitant prices demanded, and came into the market, and sold it at the price they had fixed, returning to every owner the money. After this they went to the millers and corn merchants, and insisted on having corn and flour at reasonable prices, which they were assured should be granted them, if they would return home and behave properly. They continued tumultuous and noisy all day, but did not commit any other act of violence. The magistrates collected the military force, and kept a strict watch upon them, but judged it most adviseable to treat them with the greatest lenity; and in the evening they, with the rest of the gentlemen, met in the town-hall, and a subscription was entered into for the relief of the poor, during the present high prices of provisions. This was immediately made known to the populace, and every thing has been quiet since."

We have a report from Dominica, that the earthquake which was felt at Grenada the 21st of October, was so violently felt at Trinidad, that it has entirely altered the appearance of that island, the largest mountains being levelled with the plains.

By a state of the damages which were done by the hurricane at Martinico, in the night of the 13th of August last, lately delivered in to the General of that island by the commandants of each quarter, it appears, that 6 churches were destroyed, and 4 lost their roofs; 57 whites were killed, 150 drowned, and 53 wounded; 148 negroes killed, and 416 wounded; 769 houses destroyed, and 705 lost their roofs; 81 sugar works, 101 curing houses, 78 still houses, 47 sugar stoves, 645 kitchins, 331 grating houses, 95 mills, 372 coffee houses, 245 sewel houses, and 6751 negro houses blown down; 62 323 loaves and 60 barrels of sugar lost; 69 sloops, brigantines, sloops or schooners drove ashore and lost, and 18 periaguas and 27 passage boats were destroyed.

Tuesday last, the honourable Thomas Shottowe, Esq; (brother-in-law to Robert Wood, Esq; member of parliament) secretary of this province, and clerk of the council, and assembly under several patents, and also a member of his Majesty's honourable council in this province, was married to Miss Lucy Bellinger, one of the daughters of Edmond Bellinger, Esq; of St. Andrew's parish.

JOHN FORBES, & Co.

HAVING repeatedly wrote letters to, and publickly advertised their debtors to make payment, and as they have found such notice almost totally neglected, this (they may be assured) is the last time of troubling them with either the one or the other.—They therefore hope, that those concerned will immediately discharge their bonds, notes and accompts, otherwise they will find them in the hands of an attorney at law, to be sued without distinction.

That no body may be deprived of knowing their resolutions, they have thought proper to insert this in all the three gazettes of this province.

THE Copartnership of WOODDROP & CATHCART being expired, they will sell off their stock of goods, consisting of a great variety of useful articles lately imported, NINE for ONE, giving credit to the first day of March next, or EIGHT for ONE ready money.—— Considerable abatement will be made to country store keepers and others, who will buy by wholesale; and any person who will take the whole assortment, may have it on very reasonable terms.

N. B. It is above nine months since the deceased Francis Stuart advertised his having declined business in Beaufort, and his desire of closing his affairs there; at the same time requesting those indebted to him to settle their accompts with him; such as paid no regard to that advertisement, need not be surprised if they find themselves under the necessity of settling with an attorney at law, should they prove equally regardless of this, as it would be unreasonable for them to expect the same indulgence from administrators that they possibly might have had from the deceased, when alive.

TUESDAY last a large transport ship came in here, having on board a detachment of his Majesty's regiment of artillery, who were bound to Quebec to relieve those that had been there several years; but the above ship, after making many attempts to get up the river in vain, was obliged to return. SAVANNAH, (in Georgia) December 10.

Mr. James Whitefield is appointed quarter-master in the troop of Rangers, in the room of Dr. John Perkins, deceased.

December 17.

Last Thursday evening died here, the rev. Mr. Bartholomew Zouberbuhler, for many years minister of the church in this place.

Died in Savannah, on Monday the 15th instant, and was buried the next day, Mr. Chamberneoun Williamson. He preserved an amiable character, was an avowed and distinguished son of liberty, and he died with a manly composure and Christian resignation. The shipping hoisted their colours in mourning, and his brethren ashore (as a mark of their esteem) caused minute guns to be fired during his interment, and in a body attended the obsequies.

On the death of Mr. Chamberneoun Williamson.

O'erwhelm'd with sorrow, and a weeping eye,
My languid tongue in flow'ring song his dirge;
Yet e'er I bid the dolerot theme adieu,
Fain would I pay to worth its tribute due.
Aid, O Melpomene! thou mournful muse,
Move on my breast, and all thy pow'r infuse:
He envied none their vain titles here,
But pract'd good to all within his sphere;
He view'd the verge of death with manly eye,
Was pleas'd with life, or satisfy'd to die;
He acted well thro' every scene his past,
But most excell'd in rectitude of heart;
Zealous for Liberty,—to all most dear,
A friend will natur'd, steady, and sincere.
